Healthcare industry prospectus

We are delighted to invite you to the 2026 Austin Health and Peter MacCallum Cancer Centre Perioperative Medicine Symposium, taking place from 20–22 March. This meeting is designed to be easily accessible and offers an excellent opportunity to engage with perioperative clinicians, including anaesthetists, surgeons, nurses, and allied health professionals from across Australia and New Zealand.

The meeting will cover current best practice across a broad range of topics in perioperative medicine on the Saturday and deliver a range of workshops on the Friday and Sunday of the program.

The scientific program on Saturday 21 March at the Peter MacCallum Cancer Centre in Melbourne will cover:

- Preoperative optimisation
- Communications/humanitarian
- Postoperative care

In addition to the symposium there will be several workshops held on Friday and Sunday at the Peter MacCallum Cancer Centre, Melbourne. These are hospital-based workshops covering key skills and scenarios in medicine. Workshops range prehabilitation/SDM, cardiac arrest, difficult airway and gastric ultrasound.

The healthcare industry has been very generous in its support of Austin Health and Peter MacCallum Cancer Centre meetings in the past and we hope that you will be interested in participating at this unique event. Please see overleaf for sponsorship and exhibition opportunities.

We look forward to welcoming you to Melbourne for a meeting with an outstanding scientific and workshop program from leading local and international medical practitioners.

Sincerely,

Professor Bernhard Riedel and Professor Laurence Weinberg
